MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER ADOPTING THE REPORT AND
RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

Pending before the Court is the Report and Recommendation ("R&R") (Dkt. No. 43) of Magistrate Judge Robert W. Trumble regarding pending motions to dismiss or for summary judgment filed by the defendants (Dkt. Nos. 21, 24). For the reasons discussed, the Court ADOPTS the R&R, GRANTS the motion to dismiss [Dkt. No. 21] and the motion for summary judgment [Dkt. No. 24], and DISMISSES the complaint filed by the plaintiff, Damion Green ("Green") in its entirety.¹

¹ As explained later, the Court dismisses the complaint with prejudice as to defendants Plumley and Corley, and without prejudice as to the remainder of the defendants.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER ADOPTING THE REPORT AND
RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

BACKGROUND

Defendants Marvin C. Plumley ("Warden Plumley"), Sgt. Kenneth Wingfield, Corp. James Barkley, C.O. Bobby Shaffer, C.O. Richard Gsell, and Jeremy Arbogast (the "HCC defendants") have styled their motion in the alternative as a motion to dismiss or for summary judgment (Dkt. No. 24). Because the Court has considered matters outside the pleadings, it analyzes the motion as on summary judgment. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(d). Moreover, as it must, it views all the evidence "in the light most favorable" to Green, the non-moving party. Martin v. Lloyd, 700 F.3d 132, 135 (4th Cir. 2012).

Defendant Richard Corley ("Corley") has filed a motion to dismiss, and the Court therefore accepts the facts in Green's complaint as true when analyzing that motion. Zak v. Chelsea, 780 F.3d 597, 601 (4th Cir. 2015)(citing Matrix Capital Mgmt. Fund, LP v. Bearing Point, Inc., 576 F.3d 172, 176 (4th Cir. 2009)). In addition, the Court adopts Magistrate Judge Trumble's thorough factual summary of the case (Dkt. No. 43 at 2-4).

On September 16, 2014, Green filed a complaint pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983, asserting that the defendants had violated his civil rights by injuring him and refusing to provide adequate medical care (Dkt. No. 1). On October 17, 2014, Corley moved to dismiss, alleging Green had (1) failed to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, and (2) failed to comply with the pre-filing requirements of the West Virginia Medical Professional Liability Act, W. Va. Code § 55-7B-6 (Dkt. No. 22). Following on that, the HCC defendants moved to dismiss, or, in the alternative, for summary judgment, arguing that Green had failed to exhaust his administrative remedies prior to filing suit (Dkt. No. 24).

Magistrate Judge Trumble's R&R recommended that the Court (1) grant Corley's motion to dismiss; (2) grant the HCC defendants' motion for summary judgment; (3) dismiss Corley and Plumley with prejudice; and (4) dismiss the remainder of the defendants without prejudice (Dkt. No. 43).

On July 20, 2015, Green was paroled and released from imprisonment, rendering ineffective the Court's attempts to serve him with the R&R (Dkt. No. 47). On August 17, 2015, Green updated his address, after which the Clerk re-mailed the R&R to Green's new address. Although Green accepted service of the R&R on August 20, 2015, to date he has failed to file any objections.² Following a review of the R&R for clear error, the Court ADOPTS the R&R in its entirety.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

I. Pro Se Pleadings

Because Green is proceeding pro se, the Court must liberally construe his pleadings. Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97 (1976); Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519 (1972) (per curiam); Loe v. Armistead, 582 F.2d 1291 (4th Cir. 1978); Gordon v. Leeke, 574 F.2d 1147 (4th Cir. 1978). Nevertheless, a pro se complaint is subject to dismissal if the Court cannot reasonably read the pleadings to state a valid claim on which the plaintiff could prevail. Barnett v. Hargett, 174 F.3d 1128 (10th Cir. 1999). A court may not construct the plaintiff's legal arguments for him, nor should it "conjure up questions never squarely presented." Beaudett v. City of Hampton, 775 F.2d 1274 (4th Cir. 1985).

review de novo only the portion to which an objection is timely made. 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(C). As to those portions of a recommendation to which no objection is made, a magistrate judge's findings and recommendation will be upheld unless they are "clearly erroneous." See Webb v. Califano, 468 F.Supp. 825 (E.D. Cal. 1979).

RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'

II. Motion to Dismiss

In reviewing the sufficiency of a complaint pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6), a district court must accept the factual allegations in the complaint as true. Zak, 780 F.3d at 601. While a complaint does not need detailed factual allegations, a plaintiff's obligation to provide the grounds of his entitlement to relief requires more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007). Indeed, courts "are not bound to accept as true a legal conclusion couched as a factual allegation." Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S. 265, 286 (1986).

In considering whether the facts alleged are sufficient, "a complaint must contain 'enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Anderson v. Sara Lee Corp., 508 F.3d 181, 188 (4th Cir. 2007) (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 547). "A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009). This requires "more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully." Id. Dismissal under 12(b)(6) is appropriate if the face of the complaint "clearly reveals the existence of a meritorious affirmative defense," such as qualified immunity. Occupy Columbia v. Haley, 738 F.3d 107, 116 (4th Cir. 2013) (quoting Brockington v. Boykins, 637 F.3d 503, 506 (4th Cir. 2011) (internal citations omitted)).

III. Motion for Summary Judgment

Summary judgment is appropriate where the "depositions, documents, electronically stored information, affidavits or declarations, stipulations . . ., admissions, interrogatory answers, or other materials" establish that "there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Fed R. Civ. P. 56(c)(1)(A), (a). When ruling on a motion for summary judgment, the Court reviews all the evidence "in the light most favorable" to the nonmoving party. Providence Square Assocs., L.L.C. v. G.D.F., Inc., 211 F.3d 846, 850 (4th Cir. 2000). The Court must avoid weighing the evidence or determining the truth and limit its inquiry solely to a determination of whether genuine issues of triable fact exist. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986).

RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

The moving party bears the initial burden of informing the court of the basis for the motion and of establishing the nonexistence of genuine issues of fact. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). Once the moving party has made the necessary showing, the nonmoving party "must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial." Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). The "mere existence of a scintilla of evidence" favoring the nonmoving party will not prevent the entry of summary judgment; the evidence must be such that a rational trier of fact could reasonably find for the nonmoving party. Id. at 248-52.

ANALYSIS

I. Warden Plumley

Green named Warden Plumley as a defendant in his complaint, but failed to allege Warden Plumley's personal involvement in the alleged violations of his constitutional rights (Dkt. No. 1). Because it is well-established that no respondeat superior liability exists under § 1983, see Monell v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 436 U.S. 658, 693 (1978), the Court ADOPTS the recommendation in the R&R to GRANT the motion for summary judgment and DISMISS Warden Plumley WITH PREJUDICE from this action.

RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

II. Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies

The HCC defendants allege that Green failed to exhaust the three-level grievance process required by the West Virginia Department of Corrections (Dkt. No. 25 at 1). They contend that Green submitted a grievance on May 29, 2014, referencing an earlier grievance allegedly filed on May 20, 2014. They insist, however, that Green never filed a grievance on May 20, 2014. Id. at 6-7. As a result, the HCC defendants contend Green failed properly to grieve any excessive force issues. Id. at 7. Alternatively, they argue that, to the extent the Court construes Green's May 29, 2014, grievance as one on the merits of the excessive force issue, it was untimely. Id. at 8.

On December 5, 2014, Green opposed the HCC defendants' motion for summary judgment (Dkt. No. 31). Instead of responding to their exhaustion argument, however, he largely reiterated the allegations in his complaint. The HCC defendants replied on December 12, 2014, contending that Green's response was untimely and failed to address their motion (Dkt. No. 32). Green filed a surreply on January 26,

RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

2015 (Dkt. No. 34), which Magistrate Judge Trumble declined to consider under the Court's local rules (Dkt. No. 43 at 5).

Pursuant to the Prison Litigation Reform Act of 1995, 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a) ("PLRA"), a prisoner "confined in any jail, prison, or other correctional facility" must first exhaust his administrative remedies before suing under § 1983 "with respect to prison conditions." Porter v. Nussle, 534 U.S. 516, 524 (2002) ("[E]xhaustion in cases covered by § 1997e(a) is now mandatory."). Failure to exhaust is an affirmative defense under the PLRA; inmates are not required to demonstrate exhaustion in the complaint. Jones v. Bock, 549 U.S. 199, 216 (2007). Prisoners must "properly exhaust" their claims before filing suit, thereby giving the prison grievance system "a fair opportunity to consider the grievance." Woodford v. Ngo, 548 U.S. 81, 94-95 (2006).

Exhaustion is mandatory in the Fourth Circuit, "even where the inmate claims that exhaustion would be futile." Reynolds v. Doe, 431 F. App'x. 221, 222 (4th Cir. 2011) (per curiam). This Court therefore lacks the authority to allow the plaintiff's case to proceed, and must dismiss for failure to exhaust. Hinton v. Jenkins, No. 5:13CV74, 2013 WL 6583990, at *2 (N.D.W. Va. Dec. 16, 2013) (Stamp, J.); see also Bowman v. Haynes, 282 F. Supp. 2d 488,

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER ADOPTING THE REPORT AND
RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

490 (N.D.W. Va. June 25, 2003) (Maxwell, J.) (granting the defendants' motion for summary judgment when the plaintiff failed to offer evidence that he had pursued his complaint through all steps of the West Virginia Department of Corrections' grievance process).

In the R&R, Magistrate Judge Trumble recommended granting the HCC defendants' motion for summary judgment based on Green's failure to file a Level One grievance regarding his claim for cruel and unusual punishment (Dkt. No. 43 at 12). He also found that, to the extent Green's May 29, 2014, grievance referred to any excessive force claim, the grievance was untimely. Finding no clear error, the Court ADOPTS the recommendation in the R&R (Dkt. No. 43 at 12), GRANTS the HCC defendants' motion for summary judgment (Dkt. No. 24) and DISMISSES WITHOUT PREJUDICE defendants Wingfield, Barkley, Shaffer, Gsell, and Arbogast.

III. Medical Malpractice

Corley argues that, to the extent Green intended to state a claim under West Virginia's Medical Professional Liability Act, W. Va. Code § 55-7B-3, he has failed to comply with certain statutory pre-suit requirements (Dkt. No. 21 at 8). Specifically, Corley contends that Green failed to serve a notice of claim pursuant to W. Va. Code § 55-7B-6, a requirement that this Court has held is mandatory prior to filing suit in federal court. Stanley v. United States, 321 F. Supp. 2d 805, 806-07 (N.D.W. Va. 2004). Green never responded to the contentions raised in Corley's motion to dismiss.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER ADOPTING THE REPORT AND
RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

W. Va. Code § 55-7B-6 provides that a person seeking to file a medical professional liability action against a health care provider must serve a notice of claim at least thirty (30) days before filing suit. W. Va. Code § 55-7B-6(b). The notice of claim must include (1) "a statement of the theory or theories of liability upon which a cause of action may be based"; (2) a list of all health care providers or facilities to whom notices of claim are being sent; and, (3) a screening certificate of merit, executed under oath by an expert.³ W. Va. Code § 55-7B-6(b); see Stanley, 321 F. Supp. 2d at 808 (concluding that the prerequisites of W. Va. Code § 55-7B-6 are substantive and necessary to filing a suit in federal court). It is undisputed that Green never served a notice of claim or provided a screening certificate of merit.

³ The requirement of a screening certificate of merit is inapplicable in limited circumstances, none present here. W. Va. Code §§ 55-7B-6(c), (d).

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER ADOPTING THE REPORT AND
RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

Finding no clear error in Magistrate Judge Trumble's recommendation that Green failed to comply with the requirements of W. Va. Code § 55-7B-6 , the Court ADOPTS the recommendation in the R&R to dismiss the medical malpractice claim against Corley (Dkt. No. 43 at 18).

IV. Deliberate Indifference

Corley contends that Green's allegations against him, the only medical defendant in the case, are insufficient to support a claim for relief under the Eighth Amendment (Dkt. No. 21 at 8). Green never responded to Corley's motion to dismiss.

A prisoner stating a claim under the Eighth Amendment for ineffective medical assistance must show that the defendant acted with "deliberate indifference" to his serious medical needs. Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 104-05 (1976). To succeed on a deliberate indifference claim, the prisoner must establish (1) that the deprivation of a serious medical need was sufficiently serious, and (2) that the prison official subjectively acted with a sufficiently culpable state of mind. Wilson v. Seiter, 501 U.S. 294, 298 (1991).

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER ADOPTING THE REPORT AND
RECOMMENDATION [DKT. NO. 43], AND GRANTING THE DEFENDANTS'
MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT [DKT. NOS. 21, 24]

A serious medical condition either has been diagnosed by a physician as mandating treatment, or is so obvious that a lay person would recognize the need for medical attention. Gaudreault v. Municipality of Salem, Mass., 923 F.2d 203, 208 (1st Cir. 1990). Prison officials act with a sufficiently culpable state of mind when they are "aware of facts from which the inference could be drawn that a substantial risk of serious harm exists. . ." and also draw that inference. Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 835-37 (1994). "To establish that a health care provider's actions constitute deliberate indifference to a serious medical need, the treatment must be so grossly incompetent, inadequate, or excessive as to shock the conscience or to be tolerable to fundamental unfairness." Miltier v. Beorn, 896 F.2d 848, 851 (4th Cir. 1990). Mere disagreements between the inmate and medical staff about a diagnosis or course of treatment do not rise to the level of cruel and unusual punishment unless extraordinary circumstances exist. Wright v. Collins, 766 F.2d 841, 849 (4th Cir. 1985).

Magistrate Judge Trumble found that Green's allegations against Corley were limited to disagreements about treatment, at best, and that Green therefore had failed to state a cognizable Eighth Amendment claim (Dkt. No. 42 at 15-16). Finding no clear error, the Court ADOPTS the recommendation in the R&R (Dkt. No. 43) to GRANT Corley's motion to dismiss (Dkt. No. 21).

CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed, the Court:

1. ADOPTS the R&R (Dkt. No. 43);
2. GRANTS Corley's motion to dismiss (Dkt. No. 21);
3. GRANTS the HCC defendants' motion for summary judgment (Dkt. No. 24);
4. DISMISSES WITH PREJUDICE defendants Warden Plumley and Corley;
and,
5. DISMISSES WITHOUT PREJUDICE defendants Wingfield, Barkley,
Shaffer, Gsell, and Arbogast.

It is so ORDERED.
